Sommelier's Selection: White Wines

We understand that sometimes, looking through an entire wine list can be a time consuming and daunting prospect. To help narrow it down, below is a selection of wines that we think are drinking nicely right now.

- | | | | |
|--|---|------|------|
| 620 | Andeluna Cellars '1300', Torrontés, Mendoza, Argentina | 2018 | £40 |
| - Torrontes has found a home in Argentina, producing aromatic wines that are intensely floral, with a nose reminiscent of grapefruit and tropical fruit. With a touch of spice on the finish | | | |
| 861 | Julicher, Riesling, Martinborough, New Zealand | 2013 | £53 |
| - Lime and grapefruit aromas, along with the typical hint of kerosene are the dominant aromas. the wine is off dry yet still balanced due to the naturally high acidity of the Riesling grape. | | | |
| 421 | Dobogo, Furmint Tokaji, Hungary | 2015 | £65 |
| - Tokaji is better known for its sweet wines that rival Sauternes for intensity and longevity. However, in recent years, the dry wines of the region have rightfully been pushed into the limelight, winning praise for their fresh and mineral driven style | | | |
| 710 | Leeuwin Estate 'Art Series', Riesling, Western Australia, Australia | 2015 | £70 |
| - Leeuwin estate are one of the five founding families of the Margaret River wine producing area, and they are still at the forefront of production in the area. The wine itself has a nose of Lime, a touch of sweet spice and apple and a racy acidity on the palate. | | | |
| 412 | Rabl 'Käferberg Reserve', Grüner Veltliner, Kamptal, Austria | 2017 | £75 |
| - Dry and full-bodied with notes of pineapple, honey and marzipan. Extended lees ageing adds to the texture, and brings a creaminess to the finish. This is a fantastic allround wine, and it pairs beautifully with lean meat dishes | | | |
| 243 | Alain Graillot, Marsanne, Crôzes Hermitage, France | 2017 | £85 |
| - Alain Graillot is one of the finest producers in Crôzes. Over the last few decades he has built his estate from scratch, producing wines with beautiful finesse, and great character, matching many from more prestigious appellations. | | | |
| 228 | René Muré 'Clos Saint Landelin', Gewürztraminer, Alsace, France | 2015 | £85 |
| - Gewürz almost stands alone in the world of white grapes. Highly aromatic, and full bodied, but with low acidity. The wine has a tropical nose of rose and lychee, with a touch of ginger spice. A unique wine, from a unique grape. | | | |
| 129 | Phillipe Colin, 1er Cru 'Les Combes', Chardonnay, Saint-Aubin, Fr | 2017 | £127 |
| - Les Combes is a very stony vineyard, and it produces some of the most mineral-led wines in Saint-Aubin. This wine combines the crushed rock minerality with ripe fruit notes and a toastiness brought about by judicious oak usage | | | |
| 248 | Georges Vernay 'Terrasses de L'Empire', Viognier, Condrieu, France | 2017 | £185 |
| - Vernay are the pioneers of Condrieu, championing Viognier in the 1960's when everyone else had deserted it. This wine is full bodied and round, with intense notes of peach and apricot | | | |

Sommelier's Selection: Red Wines

We understand that sometimes, looking through an entire wine list can be a time consuming and daunting prospect. To help narrow it down, below is a selection of wines that we think are drinking nicely right now.

- 1714 Cadus 'Signature Series', Criolla, Uco Valley, Argentina 2018 £46
- Originally from Spain, Criolla has many synonyms, including Pais in Chile and Mission in the USA. The wine is light with notes of crushed strawberry and cherry. Perfect for those who want to drink red with fish.
- 1147 Bernard Metrat, Fleurie, Beaujolais, France 2017 £50
- Classic Fleurie, Light and floral, with notes of rose and violet underscored by fresh wild berries. Made in a very fresh style, with a little tannic presence. This wine will pair nicely with light meat dishes.
- 1732 Tabali, 'Talinay Vineyard', Pinot Noir, Limari, Chile 2015 £57
- The Talinay vineyard is only 12kms from the ocean, giving the vineyard a consistent cooling breeze to maximise the hang-time of the grapes. Crushed red cherry and summer fruit notes are balanced by a great texture and salinity. A fantastic wine for duck
- 1713 Nieto Senetiner 'Partida Limitada', Bonarda, Mendoza, Argentina 2015 £75
- Ripe plum compote, with a pinch of black pepper and leather. Full bodied, but with great finesse. Pairs beautifully with beef, great for those looking for a change up from Malbec
- 1538 Cantine del Notaio 'Il Sigillo', Aglianico, Basilicata, Italy 2010 £75
- Aglianico is one of the best grapes that sits outside the mainstream. Dark fruit with a hint of spice. The wine is robust and has aged perfectly- drinking very well now, and will be wonderful with a full flavoured roasted meat dish
- 1568 Herdade do Esporão 'Reserva', Alicante Bouschet, Alentejo, Portugal 2016 £89
- Rich berry jam notes are complemented by spice, cocoa and toast. This is a wine that truly reflects its origins. Full bodied, round and smooth. A blockbuster from the sun-drenched Alentejo
- 1763 Henschke 'Keyneton Euphonium', Shiraz, Barossa, Australia 2014 £100
- Henschke are one of the most iconic estates in Australia, and are masters of Shiraz. This wine features grapes from Barossa and Eden Valleys, with a few Bordeaux varietals blended in. Juicy fruit and, a touch of mint and ripe tannins harmonise beautifully. This wine could be complemented by a robust meat dish
- 1019 Clerc-Milon 'Pastourelle', Cabernet Sauvignon, Pauillac, France 2010 £130
- 2010 was a classic vintage in Bordeaux, plenty of sunshine and not too much rain, led to a near perfect harvest. Dense blackcurrant fruit, with a classic hint of graphite and a supple tannin structure combine to make this a noteworthy Pauillac
- 1143 Anne et Sebastien Bidault, Pinot Noir, Gevrey Chambertin, France 2015 £140
- Grapes are selected from 3 lieu-dits for this Gevrey, with the vines being at least 54 years old. The old vines produce fewer grapes with a more concentrated flavour, making this well structured Pinot one to savour

Organic and Biodynamic Wines

More and more producers are shunning artificial pesticides, and choosing to have their vineyards become certified organic. This is undoubtedly a step in the right direction. To move to organics is to encourage biodiversity in your vineyard, creating a healthier environment for all. The biodynamic movement is more niche and more exacting than organics. Developed by Rudolph Steiner, Biodynamics are a set of principles whereby you treat your farm as one organism, that should be self-sustaining. Different stages of the farming cycle are also timed with both lunar and planetary movements.

White

- 715 D'Arenberg 'Hermit Crab', Viognier/Marsanne, McLaren Vale, Aus 2016 £40
- Full bodied and round, with notes of stone fruits and orange peel. D'Arenberg are one of the largest certified organic/Biodynamic producers in Australia
- 710 Yangarra, Rousanne, McLaren Vale, Australia 2009 £60
- Yangarra converted to organic farming in 2008. And were certified biodynamic in 2012. They are dedicated to Rhone varietals, and this rousanne is now fully mature, with a great texture and nutty notes; pairs well with meatier fish dishes
- 417 Sepp Moser 'Breiter Rain', Gruner Veltliner, Kremstal, Austria 2017 £70
- Spicy fruit and honeysuckle on the nose, give way to a textured and weighty palate, enhanced by partial oak ageing. Sepp Moser have been organic and Biodynamic certified since 2007

Red

- 1537 Fondo Filara, Nerello Mascalese, Etna, Italy 2015 £48
- Delicate notes of wild raspberry and dried petals, complemented by subtle herb and liquorice on the palate. This is a fantastic alternative to Pinot Noir, from a region which is rightfully having its moment in the sun.
- 1733 Emiliana 'Coyam', Syrah/Carmenere, Colchagua Valley, Chile 2015 £61
- Emiliana are the pioneers of organics and biodynamics in South America. They are the largest organic winery in the world, and were the first certified biodynamic winery in Latin America. Coyam is a field blend with great structure and a dark fruit presence
- 1609 Pinord '+7', Cabernet Sauvignon, Priorat, Spain 2015 £95
- Blackcurrant and blackberry fruit with a smoky and spicy edge gained from oak ageing. Bold on the palate, and will easily stand up to strong game flavours or full flavoured meat dishes

Vegan Wines

There has been a huge increase in the practice of veganism in the UK over the past decade, and slowly wine producers are starting to make it easier for people by labelling their wines as vegan if they are. However, this is by no means widely practiced, so here is a brief selection, highlighting a few of our wines that are 'vegan-friendly'

White

- 623 Nieto Senetiner 'Don Nicanor', Chardonnay, Mendoza, Argentina 2017 £38
- Light and fresh, with notes of stone fruits, white flowers and a touch of vanilla. The restrained oak use means that this wine will pair nicely with citrus and fish dishes or light white meats
- 361 Reguengo de Melgaço, Alvarinho, Minho, Portugal 2017 £55
- Light, fresh and crisp, with lemon and green apple notes. Perfect for shellfish, or by itself on a warmer day
- 857 Saint Clair 'Wairau Reserve' Sauvignon Blanc, Marlborough, NZ 2017 £70
- Aromatic with tropical fruit and gooseberry notes. This wine was hand selected by the estate's winemaking team as their best Sauvignon Blanc of the year
- 225 Dopff Au Moulin, Grand Cru 'Schönenbourg', Riesling, Alsace, FR 2014 £90
- A touch of residual sugar is offset by high acidity, bringing tremendous balance to this wine. Notes of grapefruit, pineapple and candied lemon lead into a long and fresh finish

Red

- 1715 Cadus 'Chacayes', Malbec, Mendoza, Argentina 2015 £52
- Linear and structured, from one of the cooler parts of the Uco Valley. Black fruit dominant with persistent tannins, pairs perfectly with beef.
- 1561 Frescobaldi, Sangiovese, Chianti Rufina Riserva, Italy 2015 £85
- Sour cherry and herbs on the palate, with a refreshing acidity, make this perfect for rich meats, or tomato based dishes.
- 1811 Rockburn, Pinot Noir, Central Otago, New Zealand 2016 £105
- This wine is full of wild strawberry and red cherry notes, with an earthiness that is reminiscent of top quality Burgundy.
